MANITOBA MENTION.

Miami, Man.
The Doan Kidney Pills Co., Toronto, Ont.:
Gentlemen,—I got a box of your Kidney Pills from the Miami Drug Store, determining to give them a chance to cure me of the kidney complaint, from which I have suffered for some time, and which has become so bad latterly that I could scarcely endure it. I may say that it resulted from a fall which I received a few months back. After using several kidney pills and cures of different kinds, but without receiving any benefit, therefore I am pleased to testify to the great benefit I have received from Doan's Kidney Pills. I have used only one box up to this date, and the change in my condition is so great that I cannot refrain from recommending them to any person afflicted as I have been, or troubled with any kidney disorder, for I believe that if they would cure me they would cure almost any case. I will be able to resume my farm work now, as usual, and it is not the lightest work either. I am, sir,
Yours gratefully,

A tramping couple, who claimed to be man and wife, visited Napanee this week and endeavored to work charitably disposed people with a piteous tale. They were rank impostors and received a notice to leave town, which they complied with.

Speculation has been rife in regard to a bright light observed in the sky, evenings for the past few weeks. Some have affirmed it is an electric light sent up from Peterborough. The Watertown Standard says it is the planet Venus which will be difficult to dodge as it is only 30,000,000 miles distant from us.

Forty members have been enrolled in the Boy's Brigade formed in connection with the Western church. The officers of the Brigade are: H. B. Collier, captain; A. E. Paul, 1st lieutenant; B. Spencer, 2nd lieutenant; and Parker Crossley, 3rd lieutenant.

Hiram Young, who once resided near Napanee, is being prosecuted for bigamy by Mrs. Rebecca Clegghammer, of Niagara Falls, N.Y. Young married the fair Rebecca in the States and after receiving her money, some $1,500, he returned to his first wife and started a grocery store in Toronto. Wife No. 2 is now after the festive Hiram with a club.

NEWS FROM THE COUNTRY.

DESERONTO.

The Bay of Quinte is completely clear of ice as far as can be seen, through it still holds below Adolphustown and in Big bay. The Resolute left on Monday to force her way through to Oswego this afternoon. The light rain Sunday night has started vegetation and the grass is getting quite green along the boulevards. John Solmes left on Monday for Chicago, where he has accepted a position. The big mill has commenced operations.

Earache Cured. DEAR SIR,—I was troubled with earachs for a long time and could get no ease until I tried H-gard's Yellow Oil. I can truly say that it has made a complete cure.

MISS MARTHA M. RECTOR,
Central Economy, N.S.

WILTON.

Aunt Fanny Storms is very poorly and not expected to recover. A. E. Gallagher has his new store running now at full blast.

Metzler cheese factory commenced operations for the season last Tuesday with a good supply of milk.

The remains of M. S. Robert, and Mrs. Jas. Miller were buried last Monday. Out of thirteen bodies placed in the vault this winter, eleven of them were women.

Master Percy Shibley, son of B. B. Shibley was taken to the Kingston hospital on Tuesday to have one of his eyes removed. His eye was hurt quite a while ago by a falling icicle and he has been gradually losing the sight of it since. We sincerely hope that the operation will prove entirely successful.

Weakness and Dyspepsia Cured. DEAR SIR,—I can heartily recommend Burck Blood Purifier. For a long time I was troubled with dyspepsia and weakness. The least exertion would tire me out. I am glad to say, however, that your B. B. B. has greatly benefited me, curing the dyspepsia and making me strong and well.

Rev R. M. Pope was unable to attend the Sunday evening services owing to ill health. The reverend gentleman has been in the best of health of late and much sickness necessitated many sick calls. The mortality rate has been high in this district of late, as since February 17th, Mr. Pope has preached seven funeral sermons at the White Church, Mooson.

Work at the oil wells will be resumed at an early date.

Geo. J. Perry is shipping hay to the American markets.

Miss Pauline Vandebogart and Miss Dottie Hawley, of Richmond, and Miss Maud Burley, of Fellows, have been spending a few days at Jas. Fraser's.

ERINSVILLE.

Sugar making was the gold dust of the last two weeks. Maple syrup sold readily at one dollar per gallon. Now that the season is about expired the farmers are busy repairing fences and preparing for seeding.

Mr. Richard Hinch, of Clareview, left here on Wednesday with his family to reside in Kingston. We are sorry to see him go but wish him success.

Mrs. N. Phelan (hotel keepers) of Erinsville, is dangerously ill but hopes are entertained of her recovery. She is under the care of Dr. Clark.

Mr. Amab Thompson, of Thompsonville, is also dangerously ill with pneumonia.

The inhabitants of Clarkville are in a hustle as operations have begun in the wood factory.

Rumour says we are going to lose some of our young men who intend going to Michigan. We will be sorry to see you go but wish you health and success.

Our school is progressing nicely under the able management of Miss Jennie Ryan.

CENTREVILLE.

Spring is again with us and sugar making is about to an end. The frosty nights and sunny days have dried up the roads considerably and the dust is beginning to blow.

Fall grain and meadows in this vicinity have wintered well and at present look fine. Seeding will in all probability commence next week.

Mr. Chas. Lemmon, of Newburgh, and Miss Maria McMullen, of Centreville West, were married on the 31st, inst. Only the immediate friends of the contracting parties were in attendance.

The cheese factory will start next week and is sure to swim in milk this season. "As the past guarantees the future," so must last year's record of this factory, which was considerably above its neighbors, guarantee an increased supply of milk the coming season.

Sales are at an end.

Another "Ca-s-on-Cy" affair is arranged to take place here in the near future. The "principals" in this affair are two local middle-weights. They have both started training one here, while the other goes to Newburg.

Tender building is the order of the day.

H. Asseltine is putting a shed for J. Cassidy.

The assessor has been through here, dogs are being assessed.

Visitors. Miss M. Ingoldsby, Newburgh, D. Cameron and J. McNeil, Hinch, Miss M. Thompson, Hay Bay, Miss L. Lochhead, Overton.

CONWAY AND SANDHURST.

Miss Susie Shorey has returned home from a lengthy visit to Kingston and vicinity and reports having had a most enjoyable time.

Mr. Higgins, and family, of Ankerst Island, are domiciled in what was last summer the Presbyterian manse. Mr. Higgins is to be gardener for Tarry Hall establishment.

Repairs on the cheese factory are about completed, making the building more suitable for the cheese process, and more healthy for the employees.

Now that the ice is moving out of the bay parties waiting their boats repaired will do well to call on Mr. Frank Wiskm who has put out his shingle in our town.

Mr. Hugh Hill, who had his hand hurt some time ago, is still unable to use it, but he hopes soon to be able to handle the plough.

Mr. Geo. Switzer was the guest of Mr. W. F. Fretts, Hawley, for a few days last week.

The carpenters are progressing rapidly at their work on the store. W. H. Wright, superintendent.

Mr. C. V. Wright journeyed to Newburgh last week and purchased a new canopy top buggy. Charlie now has the finest buggy on the road.

Mr. Wm. Wright has also purchased a new cart and buggy. Bill intends to drive the ladies around this summer.

Our bicycle scorchers has made his appearance again this season, his wheel resplendent on a new coat of red paint, attracts the attention of our young ladies who pay considerable attention to the bicyclist.

James A. Hill, jr. of Napanee, spent Sunday last visiting friends in this vicinity. Come again James.

Mr. Allen Neilson, of Tarry Hall, has purchased Bessie Stanton from Mr. J. T. Hill, of Napanee.

Mr. John Homer is at present the guest of Miss Prudence Fwry.

Mr. Sidney Shorey left for Napanee on Sunday last.

Mr. R. Wright has traded off his phaeton with Mr. Charlie Wright of this place.

Tarry Hall is being renovated and generally repaired, in order that it may be ready for use as soon as the boats run.

Messrs. G. Wright, M. Switzer and T. Gurren were in Napanee on Tuesday with a fine lot of hogs.

Our baseball club is being organized for the coming season. The prospects for the same are very bright and the "vigorous nine" expect to play a series of games with their near neighbors in which no doubt they will be successful.

Miss Martha Chippen is convalescent.

Mr. John Collins has secured a paying job at Cressy.

The Presbyterians intend holding a sugar social at St. John's church, this evening, next.

the table.

A communication from E. C. Warner, town solicitor, was read stating that the council had the power to grant a bonus towards a citizen's band.

A petition was presented asking that a sidewalk be built from John street to Savage and Iri kin's blacksmith shop. It was referred to the Street Committee.

A petition was presented, signed by a large number of ratepayers, praying the council to grant a sum of money towards the establishment of a citizens' band. It was read and referred to the Finance Committee to report.

The Finance Committee presented its report, showing account overdrawn at bank to be $7000. The chairman explained that there was a large amount out in unpaid taxes. The committee recommended that Frank Walker's taxes for 1895 be remitted. The report was adopted.

The Street Committee was granted further time to report upon the matters referred to them.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee reported, recommending that the electric light account be paid, less $20, for insufficient service. Adopted.

The report of the committee to whom was referred the recent communication from the Fire Underwriters' Association threatening to lower the rating of the town unless certain action was taken was read and certain recommendations were made which were adopted. The committee recommended that certain clauses in the Fire Underwriters' Association report be adopted, but that the others would entail too great an expense.

A petition praying that a four foot walk be put down on the north side of Graham street, between John and Centre streets, was read and referred to the Street Committee.

No action was taken re the petition of W. H. Whitmarsh.

On motion of Carson and Alexander the police were instructed to enforce the by-laws in reference to obstructions on the sidewalk.

On motion $30 was placed at the disposal of the Poor and Sanitary Committee.

On motion $25 was placed in the hands of the chief of police to provide a new suit of clothes.

Dr. Leonard gave notice that at the next meeting of the council he would move to amend the by-law relating to the riding of bicycles on the sidewalk.

Deputy Reeve Madole drew the attention of the Street Committee to the bad state of the street in front of Mrs. Flimdel Hawley's, caused, he thought, by a leak in the water main. The matter was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Mayor Ward referred to the advisability of the town securing some road making machinery. A machine that would crush granite would be a great addition both for road and sidewalk purposes. He thought if the town would put in a crusher and road machine the neighboring townships would co-operate with them. Reeve Leonard, Deputy Reeve Madole, Councillors Carson, Miller and others thought that it was worthy of consideration.

It was moved by Madole and Carson that the Mayor and Street Committee be appointed to confer with Richmond, Ernestown and North Fredericksburgh re the purchase of a crusher for road purposes. Carried.

Quite a little breeze occurred between Coun. Carson and Reeve Leonard over the enforcement of the regulation restricting the riding of bicycles on the sidewalk. Coun. Carson thought the Chief had been showing undue favoritism in the enforcement of the by law. He thought the Chief should pay as much attention to the older men, who transgress the law, as the boys. It is proposed to amend the by-law so that on the payment of a license bicyclists can ride their wheels on certain sidewalks in the town, under certain conditions.

Council adjourned.

Thomas Edgar, Richmond, has leased the George Finkle farm, North Fredericksburgh.

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, APRIL 9th, 1897.

The people are with us, and the power of the Bishops will not avail against us.

The weakness of the opposition in the Ontario Legislature was never more painfully apparent than during the present session.

The Catholic priests in Champlain are unwittingly doing a great harm to christianity by likening the Conservative party to the Almighty. Comparisons of this kind are particularly odious.

The Ontario Government has introduced a mining bill which is well calculated to conserve the interests of the people. It is a really pleasant thing to know that our provincial affairs are in such capable hands.

If the instructions given out from the pulpits by the French priests in Champlain are carried out the campaign will indeed have been an interesting one for the Liberals. "Drive the Liberal speakers out of the parish with sticks—set the dogs on them" is the kindly reception one priest advises his flock to accord them. If the advice were followed, starring "Uncle Tom's Cabin" would be a fair description.

UNDER the Tory regime the Government was honeycombed with corruption and the civil service loaded up with a host of parasites who did nothing in return for the princely salaries they drew at the expense of the sweating taxpayer of Canada. When the cabinet of incapables made way for the business administration which was ushered in as a result of the voting on the 23rd of June, the hangers on virtually received a notice to quit. The Liberals found the civil service lumbered up with a lot of men who toiled not, neither do they spin, and since their advent to power they have honestly endeavored to weed them out and stop some of the leaks in the treasury. We all know how this attempt to introduce business methods in the government of our country has been met by the Tory press. Every time an unnecessary and useless civil servant has been dismissed Tory journals have raised the cry that the Liberals have introduced the spoils system. A short time ago the cry was raised that the Liberal guillotine had reached Prince Edward County. We are pleased to say that it did and it would have been a good thing for the country if the same guillotine had got in its work eighteen years ago. The investigation which led to the dismissal of the customs and preventive officers in this neighboring county disclosed a disgraceful state of affairs, which, we regret to say, was general throughout the Dominion. In the House of Commons on Monday, in reply to a question by Mr. Pettet, of Prince Edward County, Mr. Patterson, Controller of Customs, informed the House that since the Reform Government assumed power eight officers in Prince Edward County had been dismissed and as many out ports and preventive stations attached to the port of Picton, at which they were formerly stationed, had been abolished. The figures of receipts at these stations and the salaries paid the officers are almost beyond belief. Here they are as given by the Ottawa correspondent of the Globe. George J. C. Hadd, a sub-collector at Weller's Bay, got a salary of $400 a year. He did not collect a cent in 1892-93 and 1893-94. In 1894-95 he collected 40 cents, and in 1896 $9. The expense of collection was $1,600 in four years, and the receipts $9. Another holder of a sinecure was John Shannon, preventive officer at Black River Bridge, who has drawn $200 a year. During the past three years he did not collect a single dollar. Scarcely less glaring were the other cases. The Picton Gazette and other party organs, who have been very offensive in their references to the "hungry Grits," will have to do some figuring in order to square their remarks with the action of the Controller of Customs. These men were not dismissed to make places for Grits. They were men who were appointed to sinecures as a reward for party services, and with the advent of an honest and business-like administration they were not only dismissed but the offices they held abolished. If this is a sample of the Spoils System by all means let the Government adopt and rigorously enforce it.

RICHARD LYMAN,
St. John, N. B.

Who can think of some simple thing to patent? protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Stone have been residents of the township of Ernestown, about ten miles east of Napanee, for a period of about three years, and in that time have gained the esteem of all their neighbors. For six years previous to this time they had lived in Glenwood Springs, Colorado, and it was during their residence there that Mrs. Stone was attacked with an illness that made her life miserable for years. To a reporter who recently interviewed her she told the following story: "During the early part of our residence in Colorado, my illness first came on. At the outset every two or three weeks I would be attacked with a pain in my stomach. Later on it greatly increased in severity, and at times was so bad that I would scream aloud with the pain. A doctor was called in, but the only benefit I ever received from his treatment was through the injection of morphine into my arm, as a result of which the pain would gradually pass away. The medicine which was given me, however, had not the slightest effect, and the doctor appeared to be greatly perplexed, and thereafter continually resorted to injections of morphine whenever the attacks came on. These attacks continued at intervals until our return to Canada, when they increased in frequency and intensity. The result was that I grew very weak, and my whole system appeared to be giving out. My complexion turned a yellowish hue, and I had little or no appetite. Latterly I would be attacked with fainting spells, preceded by attacks of dizziness. I became utterly unable to stand fatigue, and could with the greatest difficulty perform my household duties. A doctor was called in who treated me for some time without benefitting me any. Then he gave me what I now know to be Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after I had used two boxes I felt somewhat better. I then purchased the pills myself and continued the treatment. I found that the pain was gradually decreasing. I could get rest and sleep at night, which had hitherto been almost impossible. I continued using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for several months, and the result is that they have effected a complete cure, and I am now enjoying the best of health. I can assure you it is a great relief to be free from the trouble that made my life miserable for so many years and I have to thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for succeeding when doctors had failed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly upon the blood and nerves, building them anew and thus driving disease from the system. There is no trouble due to either of these causes which Pink Pills will not cure, and in hundreds of cases they have restored patients to health after all other remedies had failed. Ask for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and take nothing else. The genuine are always enclosed in boxes the wrapper around which bears the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." May be had from all dealers or sent post paid on receipt of 50 cents a box or 6 boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medical Co., Brockville.

dashing through the fire ahead of us. I sent the fireman out to see if we had enough to make the run, but he came back and told me the boiler was almost dry.

"I was puzzled for a while. It was death to all of us I knew to stay there, but how to get out was the question. Suddenly a happy thought struck me. There was a milk car just behind the first baggage, and I made for it. 'How much milk have you got?' I says to the fellow in charge. 'About forty cans, I guess,' he answered. 'Why do you ask?' 'Never mind,' says I. 'What's that in those cans in the corner?' 'Oysters,' he answered. 'But why do you want to know?' 'Never you mind,' I told him and then I ordered the other train hands who had come up to us why we had stopped to tote that milk and those oysters up to the engine. They did it in spite of the kicking of the milkman, and when they had brought them up I ordered them all chucked into the tank. The conductor came up, too, and declared it was a funny notion to be making oyster stew in an engine boiler, when we were in danger of being burned alive, but I soon convinced him that it was necessary if we did not want to stay there and roast.

"Well, we finally dumped in all the milk and all the oysters and started ahead. You ought to have smelled the steam that came back into that engine cab. It would have made you think of an old time church festival. Whew! how that soup did smell. It made the engine jump, though, and that was all we wanted. We got up a great head of steam in no time, and the way we plunged through that next fire belt was a caution. As we pulled up at the station just beyond I opened up and began to whistle. A great cloud of oyster soup or vapor shot into the sky, of course, and didn't come down till we were far out of sight. Then it settled like a thick fog, oysters, soup and all. Everybody noticed it, of course, and there was a country scientist in the town who was sure it was the greatest phenomenon of the age. It was raining oyster soup up there he was sure and the next issue of the weekly papers were full of it—not the soup, but the news of it. After the residents up that way had all swallowed it—not the soup, but the story—we told them about it, and that was the silliest looking scientist I ever saw."

TIMING THE EGGS.

How It Was Done to Perfection Without a Timepiece or Glass.

It is a common saying that every cook, if she is a cook, has a method of her own. Whether this rule could apply to so simple a matter as boiling an egg might have seemed doubtful, but a story related by The Baltimore Herald shows the doubt ill-founded. The story in question has to do with Bishop Paret of Maryland, who, of course, has often to go about the country, and to be entertained by hospitable families.

On a trip into West Virginia, not very long ago, he put up at a house, the lady of which is a devoted member of the church, one of those dainty women who go cheerfully about their housework singing hymns.

Anxious to please her distinguished guest, she had inquired as to the bishop's favorite dishes, and had been told that he was fond of eggs for breakfast, preferring them hard-boiled.

The next morning, therefore, she rose early and went down to the kitchen to supervise the cooking of this portion of the breakfast. The bishop also rose early, and coming downstairs, took a seat in the dining-room, talking to his entertainer as she hurried to and from the kitchen.

Finally she went into the kitchen with two eggs, and a moment later began to sing that good old hymn "Rock of Ages." Finishing the first stanza she paused for a moment and then started on the second, the bishop joining in the singing.

When the stanza was finished there was silence, and the bishop remarked: "Why not sing the third verse?"

"The third verse?" replied the lady, as she came into the dining-room bringing the steaming eggs. "Oh, that's not necessary!"

"I don't understand," replied Bishop Paret.

"Why, you, see," she said, "when I am cooking eggs, I always sing one verse for soft-boiled and two for hard-boiled."

"Oh! I see," said the bishop, as he broke the shell of one of the eggs to find that the new method of timing had worked admirably.

Blown Up by Dynamite.

Gen. Dudley Avery is one man among a million; he has been blown up by dynamite and lives to tell the tale. How it happened and how he felt is seen from his own account of the matter as printed in The New Orleans Times-Democrat.

One of the most exciting episodes of my life took place on Avery's Island, when ten thousand pounds of dynamite exploded.

I was in the neighborhood of the building in which the dynamite was stored, and when the storm came on I took shelter under a shed which was some distance from the explosive and was used as a blacksmith shop, by a

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Came to the Rescue and Delivery of Mankind Stopping Forever the Deadly Assaults of Life's Most Insidious Foe.

Men are dropping from the ranks everywhere. Cut down in the flower of youth or the fruitage of manhood by that ruthless destroyer—Bright's Disease of the Kidneys.

Only a few days ago Sir Hercules Robinson, the doughty Governor of Cape Colony was forced to resign that post because of encroaching Bright's Disease.

Hardly had his successor been appointed when the wires brought tidings of the death of William P. St. John, a New York banker, and remembered by everyone as the treasurer of the National Democratic party during the latest national campaign. Bright's Disease carried him off.

It has killed many better men than most of us. So has Diabetes, its twin cousin. Yet there is one cure (and only one) that never fails in cases of Diabetes and Bright's Disease. Let these testimonials bear witness:

MR. FRED CARTIENS, Palmerston, Ont., says:—"After many years suffering with Bright's Disease, I am a new man, cured by using three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills."

MR. F. X. GROULX, Ottawa, Ont., says:—"Dodd's Kidney Pills have been a godsend to me as they have cured me of Bright's Disease of the Kidneys."

S. G. MOORE, Kink St., London, Ont., says:—"After taking a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I am as well as ever in my life, despairing of recovery from Bright's Disease."

MR. CHAS. T. BYE, Garryowen P.O., Ont., says:—"For the past three years have suffered of Diabetes, but noticing cures published I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills which have perfectly cured me."

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS are for sale by druggists everywhere, and by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Toronto, Ont. Price 50 cents a box.

The Peculiar V. In Which Dashedaway Lost One Good Dinner.

Dashedaway—Condole with me, old man. I have just lost a very excellent dinner.

Clevertown—In what way?
Dashedaway—Over a bet. The other day Van Winkle, Stuffer and myself were strolling down the avenue, and I happened to mention that a few nights before I had met a certain Miss Miller at a dinner for the first time, and the question came up as to whether, if she met me on the street, she would bow. Van Winkle and I got into a heated discussion over it. He maintained that she wouldn't bow; that it wasn't customary, and I said she would. Then I bet him the finest dinner that could be bought that the next time I met her she would bow, and he took me up. We got quite excited over it, when, by jove! what do you think happened?

Clevertown—You met the girl?
Dashedaway—Precisely. I happened to look up, and there she was, bearing down on us.

Clevertown—And she of course didn't bow, and you lost your bet.

Dashedaway—But she did bow and I won the bet. But (sadly) I lost the dinner, old fellow.

Clevertown (puzzled)—I don't see how that could be.

Dashedaway—You forget that Stuffer was there. While Van Winkle and I were betting and were so excited, he had made a remark that we agreed to. We didn't exactly grasp the meaning of it until afterward.

Clevertown—What on earth could it have been?

Dashedaway (gloomily)—He said he would hold the stakes.—Philadelphia Press.

Susie's Rejection.

Family Ties may be Broken in the Grand Rush for Gold, but What's Wealth Without Health—Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder is a Wonderful Cure—It Never Fails to Relieve in Ten Minutes.

Fred Lawrie, of Trail Creek, B. C., writes: "I have used two bottles of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, and have been wonderfully helped. I can recommend it very highly to all sufferers from Catarrh." And here is another:—Mr. B. L. Egan, Easton, Pa., says: "When I read that Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder would relieve Catarrh in 10 minutes, I must say I was far from being convinced of the fact. I decided to try it. I purchased a bottle. A single puff of the powder through the blower afforded instantaneous relief." Sold by A. W. Grange & Bro.

me during the war:

We were chatting together when I felt a shock, and then, to my surprise, I saw the blacksmith going up in the air. I watched him pass through the roof of the shed, but the man, who, by the way, was an Irishman, did not seem to get any further from me.

Then I realized that I was going up, too. I suppose we must have ascended for thirty or forty feet, and then we came down with a rush, reaching the earth a little disfigured and with lungs in a state of collapse. When we caught our breath the Irishman remarked between his gasps that a little thing like that couldn't scare us, as we'd both been in explosions before.

He was wounded badly, however, while I escaped with a few scratches. We found that the lightning had exploded the ten thousand pounds of dynamite. Where the storehouse had stood there was a hole in the ground about thirty feet deep, and with a diameter of fully sixty feet, shaped like a funnel. Trees in the vicinity were burned black, and an oak tree two feet thick, that had stood twenty feet from the building, was blown into shreds so fine that not a vestige of it could be found. I have been afraid to go near dynamite ever since.

Why William Hates the Greek.

Newspaper readers following the present European complications have doubtless wondered at the German Emperor's attitude toward Greece, of which country his sister Sophia hopes to be queen some day.

The former Princess Sophia of Prussia now Crown Princess of the Hellenes and Duchess of Sparta, has not been on good terms with her imperial and imperious brother, from the day, three or four years ago, when she first declared her intention to join the Greek Church. The Emperor made strenuous opposition to this resolve, but the Princess, after explaining that she had been in no way coerced, either by her husband or his family, to take the step, quietly put an end to the discussion by embracing the faith of her future subjects.

Since then the Princess Sophia has become a stranger in her native city, and her name is never even mentioned at the Berlin court.

The Cretan incident afforded the Kaiser the first opportunity to punish Princess Sophia and her husband. It was he who proposed that the Piræus be blockaded at once. The town Princess of the Hellenes has become one of the most popular women of Athens, where she leads all movements to benefit womankind and aid the poor. Of late she has become the patroness of a society for the introduction of a new national dress. She is also at the head of an organization for furnishing wholesome food to the poor at cost price, and poor school-children receive free noonday meals at her expense every day in the year.

A Cat Farm.

A company has just been organized at Lacon, Ill., for the breeding of black and malted cats. A farm of 100 acres will be purchased and in one year's time it is expected that the number of cats thereon will reach 10,000, increasing to 100,000 in another twelve months. The skins of such cats sell for about fifteen cents apiece, and in raising them in large numbers there is money in the business.

MRS. CARY'S WAISH.

Upon the roof on summer nights,
Above the hazy city lights,
We sit, sweet Dora Dale and I,
Beneath the cool and friendly sky.

And we listen to the flapping of Mrs. Cary's wash,
Like the shaking of white sails on summer seas,
And we dream that we are sailing till we almost hear the swash
Of the water, as the lines swing in the breeze.

Love makes the roof so dear to me
That all the charms of wood and sea
No longer in my heart can stir,
If having them I must leave her.

So we listen to the flapping of Mrs. Cary's wash,
Like the shaking of white sails on summer seas,
And we dream that we are sailing till we almost hear the swash
Of the water, as the lines swing in the breeze.

The neighbor gossip on the roof,
But from the roof we sit aloof,
And plan how some day, happily,
Our roof shall be beside the sea.

And we listen to the flapping of Mrs. Cary's wash,
Like the shaking of white sails on summer seas,
And we dream that we are sailing till we almost hear the swash
Of the water, as the lines swing in the breeze.

Paine's Celery Compound.

Saves Sleepless, Nervous and Despondent People From Insanity.

THE GREAT MEDICINE HAS NO EQUAL.

Medicinal men of the highest standing, and a host of others competent to judge declare that Paine's Celery Compound is the only effective medicine for the banishment of all the troubles that lead to sleeplessness or insanity.

In the spring season thousands are restless, fretful, nervous, despondent and gloomy. They find it impossible to obtain restful and sweet sleep, and soon become physically exhausted; some already are mere wrecks of humanity.

Such sufferers cannot with safety trifle with sleeplessness and continued unrest. All in such a condition demand immediate succor and aid before nature becomes too overtaxed. The weakened, nervous and is Paine's Celery Compound, the only medicine that acts in a truly natural way to produce sleep and perfect rest.

This wondrous remedy of nature should be used at once if satisfactory and immediate results are desired. Do not allow your run-down nervous system to lead you to the very brink of the grave in spring time.

Putting off will only complicate your troubles, and deeper misery will be yours. Use Paine's Celery Compound and you are assured of perfect action of the heart, stomach, kidneys and liver, and sweet sleep will be your life blessing.

Get "Paine's," the kind that cures. Remember that there are miserable imitations—celery preparations that are worthless and dangerous.

Work of An Incendiary.

About 3.30 Friday morning, 2nd inst. the two-storey frame building used as sample rooms for the O'Connor House was burned. The west end of the hotel was badly scorched. The east end of Baker Block was scorched and the Deseronto Opera House also suffered. J. J. Kerr was probably the heaviest loser. His shop is in the Baker Block, and the water came through and damaged his stock. J. A. Jackes, traveller for Gowans, Kent & Company, Toronto, lost all his crockery samples. The losses are estimated as follows:—O'Connor House, $1,400; J. J. Kerr, $3,000; R. J. Adams, $800; A. H. Baker, $500; Mr. Jackes, $200; sundry losses about $400.

IN THE SPRING TIME.

THE FAIR ONES' FANCY LIGHTLY
TURNS TO THOUGHTS OF MIL-LINERY. LARGE CROWDS OUT ON SATURDAY TO VIEW THE
ANNUAL SPRING MILLINERY OPENINGS.

That "tired feeling" which is popularly supposed to be prevalent in the spring, doesn't effect the average woman to any appreciable extent when the annual Spring Millinery Openings are on "the boards," so to speak. As a drawing card "Spring Openings" are miles in advance of any attraction on the road and are always a source of interest and pleasure to every well regulated lady. Nor can it be said that the interest is confined to the fair sex. "Man, poor man," has a sneaking regard for a pretty bonnet, or perhaps it is for "the head that is in it," who can say. But to be candid man didn't figure in it to any great extent on Saturday, when the maids and matrons of town and county crowded the elegant show rooms of our local merchants and viewed and tried on the beautiful creations that will adorn the faces of the many handsome ladies of this district this season. The crowds that attended the millinery openings on Saturday was unprecedented in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. The ancient inhabitant, some uncharitable people will say, is not interested in such frivolities, but nevertheless he is a fine line to fall back on when you are in need of a simile. But a word as to fashions.

If the father of a family—that is a particularly large family—should enquire as to the most striking feature about the hats this year you can tell him the crowns are very high, and the prices about the same as usual. The trimming is elaborate and the colors gay. Red, mauve and green appear to be the most popular colors and they are to be found in various shades. Rhinestone ornaments are much in evidence. Batavia straw, Batavia cloth—a pretty canvas effect—are popular trimming materials. Brims are made to look heavy this year. Tuile is employed very effectively in imparting to the trimming a soft, dreamy appearance. Good taste and common sense seems to have influenced the behests of Dame Fashion this year as there are no extraordinary shapes. Cheffon, geraniums, a new thing, violets, foliage, and grass are much in vogue this year.

THE ROBINSON CO. Y.

Saturday was indeed a busy day in this large establishment. Crowds of people thronged the store both afternoon and evening and if "it is a pleasure to show goods" Mr. Robinson and his staff of clerks were in clover, without a doubt. When the Express representative elbowed his way through the crush he found all business and bustle inside. Every department looked its brightest and gayest. In the dry goods department new hosiery and gloves are in evidence, and the dress materials are among the finest ever opened up in Napanee. The clothing department is stocked with a fine line of suitings, and the ready-made lines are very complete. But passing on to the millinery department we found every available bit of space occupied by "woman, lovely woman" who was out in force to see the many pretty effects in hats and bonnets. The Robinson Co.'s display of millinery this year was indeed a thing of beauty. The show rooms were tastefully decorated and the various styles in hats and bonnets were shown off to the best advantage. Miss Baker, who has charge of the millinery department won many warm encomiums from the ladies present for the handsome display. To attempt anything like a detailed description is beyond us. Miss Baker is an artist in her line and her work is marked by good taste. We saw some very pretty hats that we would like to give an adequate description of but are painfully conscious of our inability. Among the many pretty creations was a cone shaped black crown, yellow and black brim, fancy straw hat. It was trimmed with tips and buckles and black velvet ribbon and geraniums. It had flowers under the brim and black net ties. We were shown a very pretty made hat with narrow ties plaited around the edge, and fancy straw braids arranged on the brim, with a fancy crown made of cream cheffon, band of green and cream with a yellow tip on left side also green and yellow poppies, and poppies also ribbon under brim. A small Sequin hat with roses arranged under brim, fancy tips

It would be rather too much to expect Champlain to elect a Liberal. This constituency has always been overwhelmingly Tory and in past elections the Liberals have practically let it go by default. The Conservative majority was greatly reduced, however, and in view of the stand taken by the bishops is a good showing.

Three years ago an attempt was made to blow up the Tweed News office. A keg of blasting powder with a lighted fuse was thrown through the window and landed only a few feet from where Mr. Taylor, the proprietor, was sleeping. Fortunately the fuse failed to ignite the powder. Detective Murray has been working on the case and has hopes of bringing the guilty parties to justice.

Sporting Notes.

All lovers of base ball are requested to be at the Paisley House this Friday evening at 8 o'clock for the purpose of organization.

Delegates from the Kingston, Belleville, Deseronto, Picton, Sydenham and Napanee football clubs have been invited to send representatives to attend a meeting at the Royal Hotel, Napanee, on Monday, 12th inst., at 7 o'clock p.m., for the purpose of forming a Quinte District Association football union, the appointing of officers, adoption of a schedule, etc.

The Victoria foot ball club held a meeting at the Royal on Wednesday evening and adopted red, with white stripes as the club's colors. Messrs. F. Grieve and M. B. McDouald were appointed representatives to the conference to be held here on Monday evening.

Extraordinary Event.

Brooke's famous Chicago Marine Band, the greatest popular music band in the world, has been specially engaged to give an afternoon concert in Napanee opera house, on Thursday, April 15th, at 2 o'clock sharp, to aid our local band secure new instruments. This great band is headed by Mr. T. B. Brooke, the great conductor and composer, and is composed of fifty of the best musicians the world possesses. They play two towns each day and travel in their own special train. Miss Sibyl Sammis, the world renowned mezzo-soprano, is the prima donna with the band and will positively sing at the concert, with the full band of fifty accompanying. Arrangements are being made to run excursions from Deseronto and Yarker at half rate. A subscription list has been opened and is filling rapidly. Parties desiring seats should sign at once at Haines & Lockett's store. The plan will open on Monday morning at 10 o'clock sharp, for subscribers only. All parties that have signed the list will get first choice of seats. On Tuesday it will be thrown open to the public. The prices are 25c, 50c, and 75c. Don't miss this, the greatest of all. It is a chance in a life time to hear such a great band without going out of town. Secure seats at once at Haines & Lockett's.

Rockwell Benefit Concert.

The hockey club benefit and farewell concert to Mr. F. S. Rockwell, at the opera house, on Friday evening last, was one of the most enjoyable and successful events of the season. Napanee people were not aware that the town was in possession of such an array of talented vocalists, and the excellent bill of fare presented came in the nature of a surprise to many. The glee club numbered thirty voices and the choruses were well selected and excellently rendered. The large and fashionable audience were more than pleased with the entertainment and it was the unanimous verdict that there was not a dull number on the programme. Mr. W. Durand, who has a fine stage appearance, delighted the assemblage with several fine solos, and Mr. W. Ponton struck the popular chord with "Meet a Coon To-night," and "Ma Angelina." He was roundly applauded and the boys would take no denial until he gave them "Put me off at Buffalo." The "Lime Kiln Club" by G. E. Hall brought down the house. The quartettes by Messrs. Craig and Rockwells were greatly appreciated. A recitation by Miss Maggie Templeton "So was I," won a well merited encore. Miss Nellie Herring's songs were much enjoyed. A recitation by F. S. Rockwell, "Light from over the range," was much appreciated. Miss Laura Ward acted as accompanist in her usual efficient manner. The glee club was composed of the following: First and second tenor—W. Ponton, W. Smith, J. Bennett, W. Rockwell, C. Mabee, W. Durand, C. Fanning, A. Henry, C. Dewey, F. Thomas, H. Ward, G. Harrison, F. Perry, W. Garrett, J. Cheatham, G. E. Hall, W. Carson, D. Davis, W. Bruton, F. S. Rockwell. First and Second Bass—J. Craig, G. Bustin, W. A. Rockwell, W. Daly, E. Blair, H. Gibson, W. Thexton, A. Fringle, C. Wilson, H. Ashley.

at back falling on the head, and black accordion plaiting arranged in fans, with spray standing at the back, jet fans near front and a twist of rose colored velvet around base of crown, took our eye. Miss Baker informed us that bonnets would not be worn so much this year. We were shown some very pretty bonnets and turbans, and a nice display of mourning bonnets and hats. Some of the newest shapes in small hats this year are the "Delina," "Lenora" and "The Nymph." The firm made a nice display in misses hats and Panama straw sailors, and altogether we were delighted with our visit to The Robinson Coy's millinery opening.

CHEAPSIDE.

This popular and enterprising establishment eclipsed all previous efforts in the millinery line on Saturday. Variety, quality and good taste were the conspicuous features in their display of Millinery this season. On Saturday the people crowded down upon them like "wolves on a fold" and all day long the store was thronged with delighted sightseers and customers. The Express representative followed attractions and landed in the basement where he ran across the popular proprietor, Mr. W. Mowat, surrounded by carpets, lace curtains and other housefurnishing essentials. "There is lots of room to display carpets here," he said, pointing to the large and finely assorted stock of brussels, axminster and tapestry, and we quite concurred with him. On our way to the millinery department we took a mental note of the fine assortment of dress goods, hosiery, tweeds and notions which lined the shelves. Cheapside's millinery department is a fit storehouse for the beautiful goods it contains. The show room was beautifully arranged. Festooned with lace curtains over which flowers ribbons and fancy goods were temptingly displayed. The Express representative doesn't pose as a connoisseur but he was agreeably surprised and particularly taken with the many pretty hats and bonnets so finely arranged to tempt the tastes and fancies of the fair ones. Miss Sherrin, who has charge of the millinery department, is a lady who has had a long and varied experience at the business and the elegant display speaks more eloquently than words of her ability in that line. Miss Sherrin has associated with her, Miss Frieze, of Peterboro, whose work displays much natural taste and good judgment. We would like to give a pen picture of the display but we are sure the general public will excuse us if they are able to appreciate how feeble words are when one comes to talk about ladies or babies or millinery. Some very chic effects in turbans, hats, and bonnets were noted, however. A hat of mauve and green straw, lace-trimmed with cheffon and lilies, Rhinestone buckles and mount of violets and a bell

Five Dollar Suits For Men!

The greatest array of $5 Suits ever got together in a town of this size. Not the usual $5 Suit though. Five dollars is about the size of ten dollars at present. So is the value of our Five Dollar Suits. The patterns are new; the best taste will find them all right; the qualities will surprise you pleasantly. Not the kind of surprise you get when "shopping by mail."

A Chance in Boys' Suits!

Some fifty odd suits that will fit boys between five and ten years. Odd sizes and prices; but all expensive goods. Some were $4, a few $5, the great bulk of them $3 to $3.60. We make them into three lots, at three special prices, for quick clearance—

$1.50, $2.00, $2.50.

If you have a boy to clothe don't miss these. The above prices average

Slightly over Half Value, and the goods are the kind that everyone is glad to buy.

Another One!

Boys' 3-piece Tweed Suits, coat, vest, and short pants, sizes 28 to 32 breast measure, or to fit boys of from ten to fifteen years. These are fine patterns in Tweeds, good colors, and proper weights. They ranged from $3.75 to $5 a suit. They go on sale now at

Three Dollars a Suit,

just to show that we have no rivals for clothing values.

Tailoring Snaps!

Ten Dollars for Full Suits!

Six Dollars for Bicycle Suits!

Is our price for your choice of five patterns of Tweeds, which may be seen at our door or on our counters. It is simply the greatest money-saving chance you were ever offered in the tailoring line. The Tweeds are $1 goods. Figure it out for yourself. And no one fits so perfectly as our Mr. Cathro.

Gentlemen's Spring Hats.

The hats Dineen is showing, fifty cents lower than Dineen's price. Blacks, browns, and walnut colors. We have the absolutely correct touch in shapes. For the right hat, see us.

Our Two-for-a-Quarter Ties.

Are about the only ties sold in Napanee since they arrived. Your season's ties need only cost you half if you buy now. Fancy! eight elegant ties for a dollar. That's the way they sell.

Dress Goods at Little Prices.

Some beautiful new things in shot Dresden effects, 38 inch, rich silky finish, equal in appearance to $1 goods. There are seven new color effects to choose from, and the price is Twenty-five Cents a Yard!

36-inch Costume Tweeds, broken checks, the latest mixtures and combinations of greens, browns, fawns, &c. The highest-priced goods shown are no prettier nor more stylish than these. Our price again cannot be duplicated elsewhere.

Pattern Dresses and Trimmings

Are at their very perfection here. There is more beauty of fabric and color arrangement on our pattern dress counter than you'll see in a day's travel. This week brought some very new canvas weaves, in colors and blacks, and a very choice lot of black figured goods. Our range of patterns at $4, and up to $5 a dress, is very complete. And in trimmings everything that should be here is here, and at smaller prices than you'll expect to find.

Ladies' White Underwear.

Extra good values. No trashy goods; none of the imitation kind, but good sound values in Gowns at 50c. and upwards.

Chemises at 25c. and upwards.

Drawers at 25c. and upwards.

Skirts at 65c. and upwards.

New Shirt Waists and Blouses.

They're here. The best-fitting goods made in this country. Also some that are not made in this country. Two lines of American Dresden cambric goods are especially pretty.

A Neat Kid Glove

Is a delight to the heart of any woman. The neat ones you see are Pewny's. They cost no more than the other kind. We are the Napanee agents for them, and have all the Spring fancies in the guaranteed brands; also in low-priced kinds

The Spring Carpets

Deserve your very best attention. They're the nicest goods that have come here: bright tasteful—sound qualities—moderate priced. We are glad to show them, and to give every opportunity for comparison of patterns and prices—particularly prices. If you're thinking of a carpet, we're always ready and willing, and you'll find it worth while.

Lace Curtains

Deserve more space than we can give them. A stock that would do credit to any city store, and values that they can't match. Neat bedroom curtains for 23c. a pair. Beautiful curtains at $1 and $1.25.

Crown hat which would be vulgarly termed "a beaut." Then there was a jet bonnet lined with osprey, cheffon lace with geraniums, mauve, Rhinestone opals and ties. Then in turbans there was a green and cream fancy straw tan, wire shape, covered with nett, rim shaped with lace and trimmed with mauve, and cardinal, purple and pink, with high effect of green ribbon, and knotted bow of green and velvet. "The Estelle" was a very pretty turban with a handkerchief of batavia and roses on the left and foliage, knotted with green ribbon on right, the knot brought through and folded over the rim. Violets on the back. Roses, standing effect, we were informed, are very fashionable this year, with plantings of batavia around the rim. Java sailors, dlat rims, high crowns, and narrow back, trimmed with tulle and mounts of flowers are also quite the proper caper. We saw many pretty things at Cheapside's millinery opening and our visit was a most enjoyable one.

LAHEY & MCKENTY.

The Big Store didn't have a millinery opening but they were right in line on Saturday with a grand display of dress goods and carpets and housefurnishing goods of all kinds. Their dress department this year is unusually complete and they have a wealth of light fabrics and shades. In gentlemen's spring hats they have all the latest styles and the firm is paying special attention to the tailoring department. In men's outfittings they have a large and varied stock and in readymade and ordered clothing everything is right and up-to-date. Lahey & McKenty are paying much attention to bicyclists' requirements this year. The firm informs us that they did an unusually large volume of business on Saturday, the store being crowded throughout the day.

Special value in towels, new goods just in at Lahey & McKenty's.

Farmers, Gardeners and Fruit Growers.

My car of fertilizers has arrived. Every one should try enough to convince themselves that it pays to fertilize. Those who have ordered will please call and get goods soon as possible. The McLeod Murder Case.

Detective Rogers was in town on Thursday quietly collecting corroborative evidence to be used in the trial of Jno. Troy, the self confessed murderer of Angus McLeod, who will be put on trial for his life at the spring assizes which open here before his Lordship, Judge Robertson, in May. Several subpoenas have been issued and the crown are weaving a chain of evidence that will no doubt lead to Troy's conviction. The authorities are very reticent on the subject, but enough was learned to lead to the conclusion that they are confident they have got hold of the right man at last. Troy is still confined in the Kingston penitentiary and will not be brought to Napanee until a few days before the trial.

Death of Thos. D. Creighton.

A respected resident of this district passed over to his reward at his late residence on the Kingston road, on Thursday morning, in the person of Mr. Thos. D. Creighton, aged 64 years. Deceased was an industrious and much esteemed farmer and his death will be greatly regretted. Some time ago he retired from farming and took up his residence a short distance from Napanee, on the Kingston road. He leaves a wife and five children. Fred, Henry and John are married and well-to-do farmers, and one son and one daughter resided with their parents. Deceased had been ailing for about a month and his death was not unexpected. The bereaved family will have the sympathy of all in their deep affliction.

Sons of Temperance.

Messrs. Bushell and Seymour, agents of the Grand Division Sons of Temperance, have been making a record in this county as organizers. Within little over a week they have organized eight divisions and initiated about 350 members in the Order. The divisions organized within the past week were as follows: At Yarker, Thursday 1st inst. with thirty five charter members. W. P., Everett Emberly; W. A., Wm. Cambridge; S. J. P. W., Mrs. F. L. EXPRESS-IONS.

A prominent citizen was greatly taken with the fine appearance of the Glee Club at the hockey concert on Friday evening. "I didn't know," he said, "there was such a number of good looking boys in town." If a few of the rest of us good looking fellows had mounted the platform, words would have been inadequate to express his admiration.

There was a very large market on Saturday, and maple syrup, sugar, and eggs, to say nothing of fish, were much in evidence. Everything is cheap these days and maple syrup and sugar fell into line. Syrup sold as low as fifty cents a gallon and maple sugar was quoted at seven and ten cents a pound. With maple syrup at fifty cents a gallon, the introduction of a little Muscovado into its composition is permissible under the circumstances.

While on the market on Saturday we stood for a time admiring a twenty-six pound masco that had been rudely taken from its element in Hay Bay early that morning. By the movement of its gills we could see there still remained a little of the life that makes its kind a rare catch. Some sportsmen would be content to lay around Hay Bay all summer in order to land just such a fish. The man in charge of this rara avis was of a philosophical turn of mind. "The man who knows a thing or two about fish" informed him that it was "a coking fish pike" and he smiled a "smole" of acquiescence. Then there was the individual who accosted the owner of the masco and "the coking fish pike" and gave out the intelligence: "that's an old brute of a sturgeon," and the owner of the fish said "you bet." After these authorities on fish had taken their departure, we looked enquiringly at the man and he told us that he "always agreed with such people—it saves discussion." The presence of maskinonge in the bay at this time of the year is an indication, 'tis said, that they will be plentiful this season.

Advancing civilization has rendered life almost unbearable to the noble redman and the same factor is rapidly denuding rural life of its peculiar charms. Muscovado and the new fangled appliances have taken the romance out of the maple sugar season and the old potash kettle has degenerated into a common soft soap boiler. The old days of the scythe, the cradle, the flail and the horse-power thresher, when it took more than one hired man and a team of horses to run a farm, have gone never to return. And now a brainy individual has invented a butter-making device which will do away with churning. In the name of outraged agriculture, what next? We fear that even a corn husking machine is one of the possibilities of the near future.

It will come in the nature of a blow to its many admiring friends, the intelligence that poor "Stick" is dead. Stick died young—the good always do. Some say that is the reason they are good, who can tell. Had Stick lived it might have developed into a night prowler and disturber of the peace. As it is no charge of any grave magnitude can be registered against it. Stick occupied the enviable position of office at The Express Printing Office for about six months. Of its origin and antecedents but little is known and perhaps it does not become us to enquire too minutely. It was rescued by our big hearted devil (who is a whole humane society boiled into one) from the hands of an urchin who had it firmly grasped by the tail, and with its head downward was swinging it to and fro like a pendulum. It was a small, scrappy and sorry looking kitten when it first formed the acquaintance of the EXPRESS staff, so thin and weak it had to lean against the wall to maw. But a change soon came over it, Stick grew sleek, fat and glossy and became the envy of the street. It was a very affectionate creature, inclined to be frisky and playful. It adapted itself to the situation from the start and could walk over a galley of type without piling a line. On Monday it ventured out on the roof for a sun bath, the only kind it ever got, poor thing, and from that time forth until the hour of its death on the following morning it didn't seem the same. From the kink in its back and the wobble in its off hind leg we are forced to the conclusion that it had an interview with our next door neighbor's dog. The dog is still alive, but the EXPRESS staff is not deservng of censure they did the best they could. To the kind hearted butchers and the generous milkman who contributed towards Stick's sustenance

A team of horses belonging to Mrs. McFarlane, of Big Creek, became frightened at the watering cart on the market on Saturday and ran away. The wagon was overturned in front of the Paisley House and the old lady thrown out, but fortunately she was not injured. Two large cans filled with maple syrup were overturned and their sweetness wasted on the desert air.

The most powerful temperance play ever written is undoubtedly known as "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," and Council 265, R. T. of T. recognizing this fact, are making extensive preparations, under the direction of Miss Adele Carlton Todd, to produce this play on Easter Monday at Briaco's Opera House. The Delsarte Pictures, which made such a hit at the Church of England entertainment, will also be reproduced by request of many who were delighted on their former presentation. The members of the Council are progressing finely in their rehearsals, and a performance of more than ordinary merit may be expected. Specialties will also be produced between acts, and a fine orchestra has been engaged, while the admission will be only 10, 15, and 20 cents.

HEART

WITHOUT A WIFE.

It's very weel, throughout the day,
When I'm up w' work or play,
To think a man can live allway
W'oot a wifey.

It's vera weel when claes are new,
To think they'll always last so,
And look as well as they do now,
W'oot a wifey.

But when the holes begin to show,
The stitches rip, the buttons go,
What in the warld's a man to do
W'oot a wifey?

It's vera weel when skies are clear,
When freen's are true and lassies dear,
When ye'll gang through life, nae fear,
W'oot a wifey.

But clouds will come the skies athwart,
Lassies will marry, freen's maun part;
What, then, can cheer your saddened heart?
A dear, wee wifey.

It's vera weel when young and hale,
But when ye're auld, and crazed and frail,
And your blith' spirits 'gin to fall,
Ye'll want a wifey.

But mayhap then the lassie dear,
Will treat your offers w' a snort;
Because ye're cranny, grey and sear,
Ye'll g' t' nae wifey.

Then haste ye, haste ye, silly loon;
Rise up and seek about the toon,
And g' t' hae've a gentler earthly boon,
W'oot a wifey.

HER PHOTOGRAPH.

"Watch for the bird!" the artist cries
With lifted, waiting finger;
But, heedless of the mirthful call,
Upon the camera's mystic pall
Her serious glances linger.

"Too grave!" Her mother takes the word:
"Think, darling, for one minute,
What can it be papa will say,
Opening his letter far away,
To find your picture in it?"

A look of love and rapture blent
The baby-features put on.
From parted lips to rounded cheek
Swift dimples played at hide-and-seek—
The artist touched the button.

Ah, sunbeam, knewest thou how she
Would leave the world so lonely,
Thus holding fast, in deathless grace,
The smile that on her rosebud face
Bloomed for her father only?

THE OPAL SKULL.

Of all places to oppress one with the fruitlessness of life there is none like unto the southern portion of the Colorado river. There seems always to be visible from its banks, if banks they can be called, some faint blue-gray mountain peak off in the distance, beyond the plain with its rare groups of cottonwoods and its occasional lonely adobe.

There was no color anywhere. The yellow of the sky was only a pale glimmer over the whitening blue; the green of the trees was dulled by the dust and the evening twilight. There was but one house in sight, an adobe 400 yards or less from the river.

In among the willows by the river was a small, canvas-covered wagon.
Two thin bronchos were hobbled near by, and a man was gathering sticks for a fire. He wondered if it would be worth his while to make the acquaintance of the "greasers" who undoubtedly inhabited it. They might offer him hospitality for the night; but he had learned by experience that Mexican hospitality usually implies dirt, and he disliked dirt. It was a question in his mind whether a blanket under the wagon would not be preferable. And while he debated the flat board door of the adobe opened, and a woman came out. She was slender, therefore, she was young—so reasoned the man, who knew Mexicans. More than that he could not see. After a time she went back into the house, and he fell to gathering sticks.

When the moon rose, and he, having finished his supper, was sitting beside the dying camp fire, peacefully smokwas generous and well-mannered and not ill-looking, and Senora Valera was bevy-thing, a type, more than locally famous for her beauty, and possessed of a charm that is peculiar to women of her race who have learned the usages of the world. They kept open house, in the grand way of the wealthy Spanish-Americans of not so long ago. Never a day passed that not more than one total stranger was entertained. Thus it came about that upon a spring evening some years after her marriage, Senora Valera greeted with lovely ease and grace a guest whom her husband brought home with him, a Mr. Richard Lovell of Los Angeles. But as she greeted him she glanced down at his hands and saw that he wore the opal skull. She turned to her husband and said in English that was perfect now, though made dainty by a slight lisp: "Carlos, dear, will you see if I left my opal and diamond pin on my dressing stand? I think

I took it out to wear, and forgot it.
I don't want it to get lost, and I other opal you gave me before we were married. I'm afraid they are real unlucky stones; don't you think so, Mr. Lovell? Would you mind going for it, Carlos?"

girl of the adobe stood before him. "Ah, I beg your pardon, senor; I knew not that you were hier," she cried, starting back.

"It gives me much pleasure to see you. Will you not sit here with me?" He spread a blanket on the ground near the bright coals, and motioned to her, with a deep bow, to be seated. She took her place, and he, stretching himself at her feet, leaning upon one elbow, offered her a cigarette.

Her name, it transpired very soon, was Anita—Anita Manare; his, he told her, was Richard Lovell. "They fell a-talking, and he did what was expected of him—made desperate love instantly; while she did what he had expected her to do, respond with only enough reserve to keep up the illusion of flirtation. Here, in the half tropic south-west, with an unwise child of 16, of an amorous race, the rather lax code of honor of Richard Lovell fell from him: She told him about her life.

"I was born hier," she said, "een zat house. But w'en I twelf years am, I to San Diego go to school, an' zere I English learn. I speak note much English now, for zat I have only my muzzer an' my buzzer, who zey speake but Spanish; an' Carlos he can English speake, but he like eet note."

"Who is Carlos, sweetheart?"

"He ees my sweetheart, w'at I to marry him am."

Where is he?" The young man drew a little away and sat erect.

"He ees at ze mines in Concepcion. He haf one mine for him, an' he weel be some time reech. He come to see me ze Sunday. Do you note Spanish speake—talk, sare?"

"No. Just a few words. And where is your brother?"

"He ees zis night far away. He weel to-morrow weeth Carlos come back."

Lovell understood. He resumed gradually his posture of adoration. When the cigarettes were finished he held her hands, and in time he put his arm about her and kissed her, and forgot all the maxims of wisdom that had ever been taught to him.

"What is that ring?" he asked, turning and toying with the only one she wore.

"Eet ees Carlos. He geef eet me. Weel you see?" She drew it off. "Eef you weel one match light."

He struck a wax one and held it to the ring. It was an opal set in silver, and carved in the shape of a skull. Lovell knew enough of stones to understand the difficulty of cutting an opal. He knew the skill and patience it must require to shape it like this one. There was probably not another like it in the world; certainly he had never seen it, if there were. In the flickering light it gleamed and sparkled blue, and red, and yellow fires, and the jaws seemed to contort themselves into a grin.

"How wonderful," he ejaculated.

"Yes," answered Anita.

He was seized with a wild desire to obtain it, and he played boldly for it. "Do you love me, Anita, sweetheart, beautiful?" he whispered, taking her face into his hands and looking into her eyes.

She uttered a faint but sincere "Yes."

He kissed her again, not once, but many times. "If you love me, Anita, you should give me the ring to remember you by—a keepsake, as we call it."

She slipped it into his hand.

"Ah! no. Geef eet to me," she cried, of a sudden.

"Why?"

"Carlos, he tell me zat eet ees very-wat you say?—note nice lucky."

"Then why did he give it to you?"

"He say eet for a man, note for a woman, zat eet ees like zat."

"I expect Carlos wanted to keep you from giving it away."

"No. He say zat one man w'at keep eet for life rays, he die sure."

"I am not afraid. I would be glad to die to have your ring for even a year."

"No. Geef eet back to me."

"Then you do not love me?" he said dejectedly. "You are like all women, you are glad to break a man's heart."

"No, no. I love you. You can keep eet. I weel tell Carlos I loose eet."

At the moment her mother called to her from the adobe. She threw her plump arms about the American's neck and said a clinging good-by, as if her heart were sadly wrung. And for the time being she was in desperate earnest.

At daybreak he saw two horsemen, both Mexicans, ride up to the house. He guessed that they were the men Manara and Carlos, and he hitched up the team quickly and went, in a fashion that suggested flight, taking the ring with him.

Now it happened—as such things will happen in the new west—that Carlos Valera grew very rich within a few months and went to live in San Diego with his wife.

you are here," she said calmly.

"I have never taken it off. And I'm sorry that I can't do so now."

"If Mr. Valera sees it he will be apt to kill you as not. He is very jealous."

"I fancy he has good reason."

"Kindly keep your opinions where such unpleasant ones properly belong—in your own consciousness. You will be wise to do as I say; and to be quick. Do you know that the five years is up to-night?"

"I doubt that sort of superstition. As I told you before, I'm not afraid. Perhaps you are, though? It is natural you should be. I will tell you what I will do. I'll take the ring and put it in my pocket"—he slipped it off and held it between his thumb and finger—"if you will kiss me again as you did on that night."

"I will not. You would have forgotten that silliness of mine by now, if you had been fortunate enough to be a gentleman."

"Never!—not all those caresses and protestations. Come, kiss me again, and I'll hide the ring."

"No. Mr. Valera will finish hunting for a pin that isn't there in a moment more, and if he comes back it will go ill with you—it certainly will if he sees the ring."

"Then kiss me."

"I will not. Be quick. I hear him coming. Quick."

"Kiss me. You'd better for your own sake."

"No."

"Then don't."

"Oh! hide that ring—do, for me."

"Kiss me."

"Well, kiss me, then."

He put his hands on her shoulders and bent his head. He did not see Valera step into the French window, but he knew that the woman pulled away from him with a loud "How dare you!" and a scream: "Carlos, Carlos, help me!"

And then he felt something sharp driven deep between the shoulders, and as he fell backward Senora Valera grasped at the ring and caught it from his hand. She put her own hand to her throat in the accepted fashion of the conventional faint, and as she did so, dropped the jewel into the bosom of her gown. Then she lost consciousness.

The story she told her husband was one of unprovoked impertinence on the part of an utter stranger, a man she had never seen before, and the story he told the world was much the same, but slightly embellished. It was not plausible, yet it passed. It excused the murder without any great difficulty, and it was something of a feather in the cap of the beautiful Mexican—for this was in the early days.

Senora Valera ground the opal skull to bits with a heavy stone, and kept the chips in a locket, until one day she found an excuse to drive to the cemetery and scatter them upon Lovell's grave.—Gwendolen Overton, in San Francisco Argonaut.

HINDOO FARMER

THE HINDOOS NO USE FOR WESTERN AGRICULTURAL METHODS.

Why? Because He Loves Directly and Placidly From the Bountiful Hand of Indra?—Sir Edwin Arnold on the Causes of Present Effects.

To feed only the Northwest and Oude takes fifteen and a half million acres; to feed Bengal, fifty-four and a half millions, and to feed Madras, thirty-two million acres of properly watered lands! The population of these—only a portion, remember, of the vast country, would mount up to at least one hundred and fifteen millions of souls, and, speaking generally, they all depend in less or greater degree upon those timely kharif and rabri rains. Americans, with huge areas of soil still happily left to conquer, may ask why the area of cultivated ground is not increased. The reply is that enormous albeit Hindostan appears in extent upon the maps, there is not much good ground remaining to be taken up. There are rich regions where the climate is deadly, as in the Terai; there are poor tracts where population is scanty; but neither for the old-fashioned Hindoo peasant nor for modern men with new methods and machinery does there exist any considerable margin of unused soil.

Could, then, the native cultivator double his yield by manures? He certainly employs none which are artificial and imported, like the nitrates, but he knows what he is about with his own simple materials, and when high authorities mock him for using up all the cow droppings for fuel cakes, he laughs silently because he knows that the ashes of gauri are just as precious to the soil as the natural commodity unburned. But practically the tilth is never seriously mended in India, except close to the villages and for sugar cane, opium or garden crops, unless it be by burning and scratching into the red or gray soil some jungle branches and dead leaves.

Neither have Western machinery nor scientific farming methods found any success. What can Sussex, or even Massachusetts, do with husbandman who will insist on carrying a plow or a wheelbarrow upon his head, and whose fathers for 3000 years past have stood upon a pointed stick drawn by a buffalo in order to make a trench furrow? The Hindoo lives directly and placidly from the bountiful hand of heaven, which he calls "Indra." Dwelling in his village he tills only so much of the culturable jungle as can be easily reached morning and evening by his slow-moving cattle. He has not the capital nor the mind for costly Western implements; and his winnowing machine is still and always the wind blowing from heaven. Jowari and bajri are for the humble; wheat, four and rice for Brahmins and the rich, with plenty of dal and pulses to make up for the meat which the strong Sahib and savoring Mahometan devour. Such is his simple fare—millet cakes and boiled leaves of rape and gram, with Mhowa fruit, mango, plantain and papaya—by these the blameless existence of the Hindoo sustains its innocent span. Fowls and eggs are held by most in abhorrence; no cheese is so much as known; and about one hundred and eighty million of that wonderful people never take animal food at all, unless in the shape of milk, curds and ghee, which last is clarified butter.

Thus all hangs upon Indra and the rain. If the southwest monsoon is exceptionally late in setting in, or premature in its cessation, or scanty and irregular, or excessive during its period of duration, great mischief may be done, and any failure of the rain at this season is damaging not only to the crops then growing, but also to the winter crops, which are sown after the monsoon stops, and to which a thoroughly moistened seed bed is essential. The early and late falls are looked for to soften the soil and admit of plowing preparatory to sowing the kharif in the one case and the rabri in the other, and the delay in putting in the seed beyond a certain period is prejudicial to the growth and maturing of the crop. The millets and pulses of the kharif crop are hardy plants, and can bear a great deal of irregularity; but any partial cessation of the rainfall exceeding a month in duration, or as it is called, "a break," in the rains of the monsoon, will do them great injury, especially if, as is sometimes the case during such a break, a hot, dry wind alights in the rice, the more delicate, and perishes if the plants are either too deeply submerged or their roots left dry for a few days, and for this reason the winter crops

People shudder at the tales of Montu Carlo suicides, but look on with perfect equanimity while friends and loved ones commit just as certain suicide by neglecting their health. Trifling disorders of the digestion persistently neglected lead to impurity of the blood, the tissues of the body are imperfectly nourished, and emaciation and debility follow. In the case of that dread disease, consumption, imperfectly nourished tissue is built up in the lungs forming a suitable soil for the germs of that deadly disease. One-seventh of all the deaths each year are due to consumption. This fearful death rate could be easily avoided if the proper remedy was resorted to.

A sure preventive and cure of consumption is found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases. It corrects all disorders of digestion, invigorates the liver, and makes the blood pure and plentiful. It is the great blood maker, flesh-builder, and nerve invigorator. It gets into the blood and acts directly upon the lungs, building up healthy tissue and driving out all impurities and disease germs. Thousands have testified to its wonderful merits. Druggists sell it.

"I feel that I must write you telling you of the great benefits derived from the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Miss Laura Hiers, of East Bethlehem, Washington Co., Pa. "Last summer my friends thought I was sure going into consumption, and having tried doctors before with no satisfactory results and hearing your medicine so highly spoken of, I took one bottle. My cough left me altogether with all the distressing symptoms, and in fact the cure seemed almost miraculous to all who saw me. I cannot say enough in praise of the medicine, and have done much to induce others to use it."

her. Queen Olga is a Russian Princess and was an honorary admiral in the Russian fleet. She has just returned her insignia to St. Petersburg with the remark that she cannot hold rank in a fleet that has fired upon the Greeks. Olga is the eldest daughter of the Grand Duke Constantine of Russia and a niece of the late Czar Alexander II. She is tall and stately and realizes the traditional idea of a Queen in her appearance and manner. She is a blonde with brown hair, regular features, and a beautiful neck and shoulders. She goes about Athens unattended, even by a maid, and dresses in the most simple fashion. On state occasions she costumes herself royally. She is very fond of pearls and has a small fortune in these ornaments. She is most popular among the Athenian ladies and ing a man with her own hand, summoned her orier and ordered him to announce to the town that "the Queen has had a thorn removed from her foot this morning." He adds that Mok-wai's reign has been stained by many a "cool act of murder and bloodshed, and she avenges herself particularly on those who are the objects of her jealousy.

In his talk with the Queen, Capt. Gibbons, who had met her daughter, the ruling princess of Seseheke, and her husband, spoke in laudatory terms of them. A full translation of her reply is: "Oh, they are merely small fry. I and Lewanika are the big wigs in this part of the world."

Mokwai and her brother, the King, have signed a treaty, placing their country under the British flag, but as yet the British have not established any semblance of authority over the land, and this savage Queen is still at liberty to kill as many husbands and other persons as she pleases.

SEA FREAKS HER PETS.

A Young Woman Who Raises Marine Monsters in Jars.

A young woman living in Worcester, Mass., has discovered a new field for her sex. It is science—science in strange form and uncouth guise. Miss Dell Ten Eyck is the feminine pioneer. She is a member of the Natural History Society of Worcester. Ever since she can remember, she has had the curiosity of the woman and the scientist combined, trending in the direction of these strange creatures we see in glass jars in the Natural History museums, that fill us with horror, and stir within us the alarm which finds vent in nightmares besides which the creatures of a Welsh rabbit are as nothing at all.

She preserved and is at the present time engaged in cultivating all sorts of curious monsters which are to be found traveling about the waters of the ocean and crawling along its bottom. These are growing in jars, and form one of the oddest collections that is to be seen anywhere.

At present the particular feature of Miss Ten Eyck's work is the cultivation of those little marine puzzles known as deep sea anemones. There is, however, in addition, a very interesting collection of various sorts of fish and corals, which commands much of the young scientist's attention. One of the most curious of the fish is the sea porcupine. It has the faculty of inflating itself with air until it looks like an animated balloon. An odd characteristic of the creature is that when inflated it is as helpless as a turtle that is turned on its back. It has no control over itself whatever, and floating upon the surface of the water, is blown about at the mercy of the wind and waves until the air is exhausted.

Among the various specimens which Miss Ten Eyck is carefully watching are a number of young sharks. Just what she will do with these marine cannibals when they become too large for their present quarters she does not know, but she has hopes that ere that time arrives the society of which she is a member will provide an aquarium for the specimens.

In other jars Miss Ten Eyck has growing coral. These tiny polyps were after numerous failures successfully transplanted from their native home in the South Pacific Ocean to a comfortable if somewhat more restricted existence in glass jars in the rooms of the Worcester Natural History Society.

One of the rarest specimens which she has is what is commonly termed a sea horse—in appearance half animal, half fish. They are hatched from eggs, and when fully grown are about eight inches long.

Almost as interesting, but much uglier in appearance than the sea horses, are a number of young sea

Good Blood

Is essential to health. Every nook and corner of the system is reached by the blood, and on its quality the condition of every organ depends. Good blood means strong nerves, good digestion, robust health. Impure blood means scrofula, dyspepsia, rheumatism, catarrh or other diseases. The surest way to have good blood is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine purifies, vitalizes, and enriches the blood, and sends the elements of health and strength to every nerve, organ and tissue. It creates a good appetite, gives refreshing sleep and cures that tired feeling. Remember,

ALAS, NO BYRON NOW.

SCANDINAVIA SEEMS TO BE AT THE HEAD THESE DAYS.

Dr. Nansen's Happily Ended Arctic Drama in Contrast With King George's Brave Stand For the Oppressed Cre-tans.

In Scandinavia to be our purveyor of sensations? It would seem so. At the present moment two sons of the Vikings are the most prominent figures in the European play—Dr. Nansen, with his happily ended Arctic drama, and King George of Greece, with his "Liberty of Crete," which may be tragedy or—unlike as not—unsatisfactory farce.

The first fine detonation of the Nansen boom has died down; the hero is no longer a center of the stage, the lime light is full on him, and one hopes for a good old-fashioned drama—the curtain falls—Vice deposed, Virtue triumphant, in the "Greek manner. Looking at King George's one recalls Byron's line:

"These Greeks! Indeed, were proper men (The Curse of Minerva)," and alters the tense to the present. He is a "proper man," and all he wants is a worthy post. There are no Byrons nowadays (Byron, by-the-by, was, if not a Scandinavian, at least a Northman, for he was a half Scot), to write the record of a nation's struggles in a ringing line and celebrate its ancient glories in a couplet. But is there any need? Did not Byron himself leave enough to make Greece something more than a mere aesthetic memory? Why, what could be more applicable at this moment than his translation of "Sons of the Greeks, arise!"?

Such, manifestly despising—
The Turkish tyrant's yoke,
Let your Country see you rising,
And all your chains are broke.

His poems ring from end to end with "drum taps" for the present struggle:
The sword, the banner and the field,
Glory and Greece-grounded me set,
The Spartan, borne upon his shield,
Was not more free.

Awake! not Greece she is awake!
"Wake, etc.

"On this day, I complete my 36th birthday," Missoula, Jan. 22, 1824, not three months before his death!

Or take these words of wisdom:
Trust not for freedom to the Franks—
They have a King that buys and sells;
In native swords and native ranks.
The only hope of conquering devils,
But Turkish force, and Latin fraud,
Would break your shield, however broad.
—Don Juan, Canto III.

It is to be hoped the last couplet is not sad prophecy. That famous interpolated poem in "Don Juan," is full of quotable and splendid things. What school boy does not know?

The Isles of Greece! the Isles of Greece!
Where burning Sappho loved and sung,
Where grew the arts of war and peace,
Where Delos rose and Phœbe's sprung,
Eternal summer gilds them yet, careless crop, dependent on the continuation of rainfall in September and October, after the monsoon has generally ceased in Upper India.

The self-respect of Hindoos is prodigious; and they "lose face" in applying to any save a kinsman for food, which, indeed, as many Americans will know, is, especially if thus obtained, uneatable for high castes when not lawfully prepared. A Hindoo servant, whom I desired to cure surreptitiously of his deadly weakness, after fever, by beef tea, told me, quite sweetly, that he would have poisoned me upon recovery, if I had carried out the idea. Again, the purahnashin, the "curtain-dwellers," those women who must not be seen in public—a foolish fashion adopted from the Mogul and never really Aryan—cannot announce their misery nor take an alms-bowl to the relief camp. There is a vast category of these—women, and children—who begin slowly and certainly to perish as soon as the famine begins and who must and will succumb at last, unreached by the great hand of the Government, or only reached when despair has brought them—haggard, waster, and shameless—to snatched that last meal, which is desperately craved for, but the very eating of which is poison to the enfeebled and ulcerated stomach.—Sir Edwin Arnold, in The North American Review.

The Bay of Fundy's Tides.

Extraordinary stories are sometimes told of the immense tides in the Bay of Fundy. The scientific facts in regard to them have recently been published by the Dominion Geological Survey. The bay is about 145 miles long, and gradually narrows, and becomes shallower, as it divides into two main branches, and several small side bays exist. The highest tides at the mouth of the main bay reach eighteen feet. Going up the bay they increase in height. At Digby Neck they attain 22 feet, at Petitcodiac River 46 feet, and at Noel River in Cobequid Bay 53 feet, the maximum. Some branch bays are left empty at ebb tide.

The Eddystone Lighthouse.

The smallest inhabited island in the world is that on which the Eddystone Lighthouse stands. At low water it is 30 feet in diameter; at high water the lighthouse, whose diameter at the base is 28 3/4 feet, completely covers it. It is inhabited by three persons. It lies nine miles off the Cornish coast and thirteen miles southwest of Plymouth Breakwater.

along them: Like all the rest of this singularly democratic royal family the Queen never deports herself in the manner assumed by royalty in general and while dignified is gentle, affable and lovable. Olga is a great scholar. She loves science and the classics, and can speak fluently in Russian, Italian, Greek, French, German and English. Lately she has mastered Albanian also. She is interested in music and art, devotes much of her time to charity and public education, and has founded one of two prosperous schools in Athens. Her recent patriotic display will make her all the more loved by the Greeks.

QUEEN OF THE MAROTSE.

A Woman Who Has Killed Six Husbands and Is Now Living With the Seventh.

This is a picture of an African Queen, and she is a very important person in her way. Every explorer who has entered the large country of the Marotse in the Upper Zambesi Valley within the past few years has told of Queen Mokwal. This picture of her is taken from Dr. James Johnston's capital book, "Reality vs. Romance." He met the Queen during his visit in 1891-92; and Capt. A. S. H. Gibbons of the British army, who traveled in the Marotse country last year, has given further details about this remarkable but not particularly admirable woman. In Dr. Johnston's picture of her she appears with twenty-five slave girls sitting in a half circle around her.

Queen Mokwal derives her importance from an unwritten but time-honored law of her country. She is the eldest surviving sister of the ruling king, and, according to the unwritten constitution, without her advice and sanction her brother, King Lewanika, is debarred from giving effect to any important measure. She holds the veto power, and as she is a much more determined character than her vacillating and pusillanimous brother, she is the real power in the great Marotse country. She lives at Nalolo on the Zambesi, about twenty miles below Lilulul, where the King resides, and when she visits the capital of the kingdom she goes in state. When Dr. Johnston saw her she had come to Sefula, near the capital, attended by 150 women, to be present at the marriage of the King's eldest son; and there was a great flourish of trumpets when she and her retinue of the gaudier sex came into view.

While nothing can be done in all-important affairs of state without consulting Queen Mokwal, she rules supreme in the minor, local affairs of her own district. Capt. Gibbons says that she holds the power of life or death over her subjects. She is at liberty to wed or depose a husband whenever she pleases, and she lives quite up to her opportunities in these respects. The man she had honored by making him her husband last year was No. 7. She had killed all his predecessors, and it is therefore a very precarious undertaking to become the husband of Queen Mokwal. No. 6 had earned for himself the universal respect of the people by his kind and just treatment of all. The people loved him and the Queen could not stand that, for jealousy and envy are the woman's leading passions. So she had him come to her hut to drink beer, and two young men, armed with spears, were stationed there, with instructions to kill the poor fellow when he gave the signal. She gave the sign; but the two young men, less hard-hearted than their mistress, hesitated. With a curse on their cowardice, the woman seized a Portuguese sabre and ran her victim through. As he fell she remarked contemptuously: "Thus has a thorn been removed from my flesh."

This metaphor seems to be generally employed when the Queen desires to announce the violent death of another of geons and sharks. One of her particular pets is a goose-fish, which is in appearance a sort of marine nightmare entirely unlike any other member of the fish family. It is a most voracious specimen, and will eat anything and pretty much everything which comes within its reach. The specimens at present are hardly larger than a silver dollar, being almost circular in shape, with a mouth nearly as big as the body. These fish grow eventually to be five and six feet across.

For the Baby's Outfit.

When preparing an outfit for an infant provide the softest and finest materials your means will permit. One should stop to consider how soon the skin of the infant is in its early days.

Embroideries should never be selected for trimming the neck of dresses and nightgowns. Lace is much daintier, and while less expensive than embroideries, it gives a richer appearance to the little wardrobe.

For night wear flannels should have an admixture of cotton. This prevents shrinking. The day's frocks may also be made of cotton and wool flannel, but silk and wool makes a much handsomer skirt and will last for years.

Do not provide rubber shields; those made of quilted cambric are much more cleanly and better for the child in every way.

The dresses should be one yard long when finished. A deep hem is the most popular finish at the present time, and is far more sensible than a ruffle of embroidery. The little dresses are far more easily laundered and the extra expense may be added to the quality of the material.

French nainsook should be first choice for the dresses; sheer dainty is also desirable. Soft finished cambric comes next on the list.

The Isle of Wight Memorial.

Princess Beatrice, as Governor of the Isle of Wight, will unveil the local memorial to Lord Tennyson next summer. It is a monument of Aberdeen granite, which will be erected on the verge of the cliffs near Farringford, so that it will be a landmark for all ships passing up or down the channel.

A Hand-Knitting Industry.

Lady Arran is managing a hand-knitting industry in County Mayo, Ireland. Although designed to give work to such of her husband's tenants as needed employment, the venture has proved profitable financially, 7000 pairs of stockings having been knitted last year and £2000 spent in wages.

The mortal look on Marathon, And Marathon looks on the sea; And musing there an hour alone, I dreamed that Greece might yet be free.

The poet's dream came true: Greece is free, and would have her neighbor of Crete free too. She sends men and ships to that end;

A king sits on the rocky brow, Which looks on sea-born Salamis; And men in nations, all were his; And ships, by thousands, lay below, He counted them at break of day;

It will be said if we have to ask— And when the sun set, where were they? May we not have to answer—

'Tis Greece, but living Greece no more! Nor this—

Chime of the unforfeited brave! Whose ladies' homes on clods' graves Shine of the night's? can it be That this is all that remains of Thee? The Glorious.

Before such an unforgotten pass Byron would like to hear the sound of battle:

... an echo died and new: You might have heard it on that day, O'er Salamis and Megara; (We have heard the hearers say) Even unto Phryen's Bay.

The Siege of Corfu.

And in that hour of battle he would have the Greeks display the spirit of Myrrha in "Sardanapalus":

Fear? I am a Greek, and how should I fear death?

Myrrha, who was— A Greek, and born a foe to monarchs— A slave, and hating fetters.

Byron had that true patriotism which is of no country, the patriotism that alien itself with a "distressful" country. He loved Greece more for its existing sorrows than for its past glories. Not but he respected her olden splendor, for you may remember how he flayed Lord Elgin when that shrewd man raped Athens of her magnificent marbles—

Daughter of Jove! in Britain's injured name.

A true-born Briton may the deed disclaim, Frown not on England; England owns him not!

Athena, no! thy plunder was a Scot. —Minerva's Curse.

And again— What, shall it e'er be said by Britain's tongue

Albion was happy in Athens's tears? Though in thy name the slaves her bosom wrung, Tell not the deed to blushing Europe's ears, —Child Harold, Canto II.

But, surely, enough has been written to show how this Northman loved warlike Greece. And it may as surely go without saying that public sympathy at the present day is of the same hearty character as was Byron's love for the Greece of 70 years ago.

Five Generations.

On the farm of R. H. Hicks, in Nash County, N.C., there lives a family that cannot, in all probability, be duplicated elsewhere in the United States, says The New York Journal. It is a colored family and consists of five generations of lineal descendants in unbroken couples.

The oldest couple are Ben and Harriet Speight, aged 90 and 92 years respectively.

The next couple are their daughter Jane, and her husband, Jeff Bell, who are 71 and 72 years old. Their daughter Della, and her husband, Jonas Harrison, 47 and 51 years old, form the third couple.

This couple have been blessed with 13 children, of whom 10 are now living. One of the 10—George Harrison—and his wife, Gabriella, 29 and 24 years old, constitute the fourth couple. One of the four children of George and Gabriella, Georgianna by name, 3 years old represents the fifth generation.

A Remarkable Boy.

The French Academy of Sciences, in 1729, examined the case of a French lad, only 7 years old, who, in all respects, save that of intelligence, was the equal of a man of 20. His remarkable physical development began when he was 2 years old; at 4 he could do the farm work of a boy of 15 or 16, and at 7 he was a fully grown man. Although his physique was thus remarkably developed, his intelligence was no greater than that of children of the same age. He died before he was 20. As is usual in such cases of premature development, his strength faded away
